

let me go ... down

My Dear,

It's been almost six years exactly, and I still long for you. Actually, I'm desperate. I've gone through a lot of changes and transformations since our last encounter in California. I discovered the joys and pleasures of short liaisons, yet my loneliness prevails.

I had a dream: an embrace from behind. I remember the sensation – a tingling all across my back. I felt taken care of, as if someone cared about me. I smiled. I was calm and happy. I felt like I arrived. In the arms of somebody.

I've said goodbye to love many times these past years and, yet, I don't want to be alone. My longing returns like a song that I can't get out of my head.

I want to perform for you. I want to give you a show. I might fail, I might not be good enough, but I want to try. I'm ready to humiliate and destroy myself, to become someone new. With you.

Yours,

Robert

let me go ... down
Performance by Robert Steinberger in collaboration with Guillaume Trionfo

Thursday April 6th 8:00 pm

Saturday April 8th 8:00 pm
Conversation with Nathan Schocher (Philosopher & Gender Theorist) following the performance

hosted by Le Foyer and Wagner & Friends at Réunion, Müllerstrasse 57, 8004 Zürich